Why us?

Hayley Rose heads up our legal desk. As a non-practising solicitor and recruiter, her knowledge of boutique, regional, and national firms is extensive, having worked alongside many of them in her previous role.

Her expertise is especially pertinent when considering the intricacies of specialist recruitment; she can truly understand the requirements of a legal role and explain these to a prospective candidate without oversimplifying the matter.

Hayley's expert knowledge is paired with that of specialist legal Research & Content Consultant Chloë Williams, who has also worked in private practice, providing Harvey John's legal desk with a unique understanding of market trends and the intricacies of legal work.

Testimonial

from a candidate placed as an International Legal Director at a Global Biotech Company

I recently started a new legal role at a biotechnology company and I must thank Hayley for her exceptional service and support throughout the whole process.

Hayley was comprehensive in her approach to explaining the role and the company and why I might be a good fit and provided excellent guidance to ensure I was well-prepared for the interviews.

During the process, she was very helpful in answering all my queries and always gave me regular updates. It has certainly been one of the best experiences I have had in my career working with a recruiter.

Hayley was thorough and very friendly throughout and I would strongly recommend her and the Harvey John team to companies and senior lawyers when considering preferred professional recruitment firms.
