Why us?

Having begun her career as a solicitor in private practice, Hayley brings a practical understanding of the challenges, opportunities, and career decisions lawyers face throughout their careers.

Hayley specialises in senior legal appointments across both private practice and in-house teams, partnering with law firms and high-growth businesses on strategic hiring. She also works closely with experienced lawyers, providing trusted advice on career progression, market positioning, and future opportunities.

Taking a consultative and relationship-led approach, Hayley focuses on building long-term partnerships rather than delivering purely transactional recruitment solutions. Her combination of legal experience, market expertise, and honest advice enables her to support clients and candidates in making informed decisions that lead to successful, lasting outcomes.

I recently started a new legal role at a biotechnology company and I must thank Hayley for her exceptional service and support throughout the whole process.

Hayley was comprehensive in her approach to explaining the role and the company and why I might be a good fit and provided excellent guidance to ensure I was well-prepared for the interviews.

During the process, she was very helpful in answering all my queries and always gave me regular updates. It has certainly been one of the best experiences I have had in my career working with a recruiter.

Hayley was thorough and very friendly throughout and I would strongly recommend her and the Harvey John team to companies and senior lawyers when considering preferred professional recruitment firms.
